Subject: Subject: Request for framing strict regulations to abolish the "Non-Going" practice being conducted with the consent of school administrations and parents of candidates.

To,

Honourable Madam President,

Subject: Request for framing strict regulations to abolish the "Non-Going" practice being conducted with the consent of school administrations and parents of candidates.

Honourable Madam President,

Jai Bharat! Jai Jinendra! Respectful greetings at your feet.

I, Rahul Jain, son of Smt. Sunita Jain, hail from the historic city of Jhansi — the land where Rani Lakshmi Bai, the valiant queen, set an immortal example of courage, sacrifice, and patriotism during India's First War of Independence against the British Empire.

Honourable Madam President, the year 2022 holds great significance in Indian history for two reasons — first, India celebrated the "Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav", and second, the nation was blessed with its first woman President from the tribal community — a proud vegetarian — in your esteemed form. Your elevation to the highest constitutional position has become a milestone in the journey of building a new, self-reliant, and compassionate India.

I firmly believe that under your visionary leadership, India will certainly advance from being a developing nation to a developed one. I also hope that by the time your first tenure concludes in 2027, many historic achievements will be inscribed in golden letters in our nation's glorious history — and this humble subject of mine will find a respectful place among them.

Honourable Madam President, I wish to draw your kind attention to a deeply concerning and harmful practice spreading across the country — the "Non-Going" practice. Under this system, with the mutual understanding between certain school administrations and parents, students are permitted to appear in examinations without attending school throughout the academic session.

Request for framing strict regulations to abolish the ...

<https://mail.mgovcloud.in/zm/?fromService=wp&wpVersion=55e...>

This practice not only undermines the sanctity of our education system but also adversely affects the holistic development, discipline, ethics, and social values of students. Schools are not merely centres for examination results; they are institutions for building character, inculcating values, and nurturing social responsibility — all of which are being eroded by this trend.

Therefore, I humbly request your kind consideration of the following measures to curb this detrimental practice:

- Link students' attendance in all schools across the country to a centralized online portal mandatorily.
- Restrict any student with less than the prescribed minimum attendance from appearing in examinations or being promoted.
- Take strict administrative action against schools that violate such norms merely for financial gain.
- Hold parents accountable who encourage or participate in such unfair practices.

Honourable Madam President, if these suggestions are implemented, the true purpose of education — "Knowledge, Values, and Personality Development" — can once again be restored. Considering your experience as a teacher (1994-1997), I firmly believe that no one understands the importance of school attendance and the role of institutions in shaping students' lives better than you.

Hence, I earnestly appeal to you to take the necessary steps in this direction to make the Indian education system more transparent, ethical, and disciplined, ensuring that every student grows into a healthy, capable, and responsible citizen of our great nation.

With deep respect, seeking your blessings and guidance always,

Yours sincerely,

Rahul Jain S/o Mrs. Sunita Jain
